SMART CASUAL & WHY IT'S A DON'T

Smart Casual is a style halfway between formal and casual. Therefore, it is neither an elegant look with a jacket and necktie, nor an overly sporty outfit with sneakers, t-shirt and jeans. Smart Casual stands for 'simple, but elegant'.

The image displays three distinct outfit ensembles arranged horizontally on a white background. A red double-headed arrow is positioned below the outfits, indicating a spectrum from 'MORE CASUAL' on the left to 'MORE BUSINESS' on the right. The first outfit (left) consists of a dark blue zip-up jacket, a white t-shirt, and dark denim jeans, paired with white sneakers. The second outfit (middle) includes a grey V-neck sweater, a dark polo shirt, a dark blazer, light-colored trousers, and a light blue button-down shirt, paired with brown suede shoes. The third outfit (right) features a dark blazer, a white dress shirt, a striped tie, dark trousers, and a white dress shirt, paired with black dress shoes.

MORE CASUAL

- Casual jackets ok
- Solid t-shirts ok
- Solid denim ok
- Clean sneakers ok

A LITTLE BIT OF BOTH

- Sports jacket encouraged
- Matching suits in special occasions
- Ties optional
- Polos ok
- Denim ok (sometimes only on Fridays)

MORE BUSINESS

- Matching suit ok, ties encouraged
- Sports coats with pants ok
- No denim
- No sneakers

BUSINESS ATTIRE, SEMIFORMAL, MILITARY UNIFORM

- Business Attire is a step up from Business Casual. Highly recommend Jackets and Neckties.
- Semiformal/Cocktail: A more relaxed look than what's required at a formal, black-tie event. Wear something nice, no need to purchase an evening gown or rent a tux. Instead wear a cocktail dress, dressy jumpsuits, rompers, & separates; or a suit or tailored pieces. This includes a shirt, chinos or slacks, a sports jacket or blazer, and dress shoes.
- Military Uniform: those wishing to wear military uniform (ASU/Class A/Mess Dress) are authorized to do so, yet not required.

CASUAL CIVILIAN & SPORTS TEAM THEME

- Casual Civilian: Safe, decent, neat, and clean. Civilian clothing will be worn in good taste, conservative, and set an example of neatness with your appearance.

- Sports Team Theme: Wear a jersey, shirt, or other attire to show us who you root for.
